

Business Case 2022 Portofolio Website

We at HealthyFictionalFood, would like a website where our customers can easily view what we stand for and the services we offer.

A little about us, we are a health consulting firm that works with athletes around the world. We have several high-profile clients and wish to give our customers a great experience. And would like this portfolio website really to show off what we are capable off.

We have a weekly food planner website, that we would like to have incorporated into the website that you develop for us. The site should be responsive as well, so it won't matter if our users visit the site on their computers or on their phone.

We would like a slider with testimonials or a Trustpilot reference on our frontpage at the bottom, just above the footer. And the footer needs to contain our contact information.

We would like a login system where our current clients can signup and login. And through here they should be able to book a consultation with us. We will then need to confirm these consultations. We would also like to be able to delete all consultations that are no longer current.

We offer different kinds of consultations and would like that to be displayed on our frontpage, with a redirect to our booking system, which then asks our customers to sign up or login first.

On the website there should also be a contact form which should contact us via email. This way customers can still get in touch with us even without being logged in.

We at HealthyFictionalFood do write a lot of articles and blog posts, if it is possible to develop a blog site which can be accessed through a navbar, that would be highly desirable as well.
